

DSP9221 Simple Guide Station

Description

The simple guide station is visual operation guide station based on the Android platform, which can remotely control recording and broadcasting host, support preview of PVM and PGM image. It mainly includes automatic and manual mode, supporting remote monitoring director and preview interface, display all signal source pictures, set the layout of preview page, control of camera PTZ, etc under manual mode. Besides, it has simple appearance, convenient operation process, which is easy to install and can be customized to meet individual needs.

Features

- With DC 12V power supply, support LAN, HDMI, USB connect
- With Android system by defaults, support Windows and Android system
- Supports free switching of recording and broadcasting hosts
- Automatic guide mode and manual guide mode for optional
- Support remote recording control
- Support remote live control
- Support remote recording and broadcasting control
- Support preview of PVW and PGM images
- Support switching PVM layout and streaming
- Support remote PTZ control
- Support remote startup and shutdown of recording and broadcasting host,by same Network connection
- Support system upgrade, which can be realized by inserting USB flash disk